

Scott Podvin's AI Visibility Report

skylinepropertyexperts.com · Audited 2026-09-13 · Tailored for: distressed CRE, alternative credit, real estate private equity, hospitality investment/development

FULL SCORE · ALL 5 PILLARS

62/100 C → 85/100 projected after fixes

Every number here is from a live test, not an estimate

The five pillars below (crawler access, entity & schema, content citability, off-site corroboration, technical foundation) were measured directly. The buyer-question results on the next page came from live calls to ChatGPT, Claude, Perplexity, and Gemini — not approximated.

WHAT AI SEES ABOUT YOU NOW

Across 10 real buyer questions spanning all four of your named categories, Skyline Property Experts is cited in 0 of 12 sources — on every single question, on every engine that responded (Perplexity and Gemini answered all 10; Claude and ChatGPT answered 4 of 10). The gap is the same in every category: distressed CRE, alternative credit, real estate private equity, and hospitality investment/development.

Cited instead of you: CASE, Kroll, HREC, and Performance Advisory Group — firms your size, in your exact categories, structured so AI can read and cite them.

THE FIX

1. Today

Remove the placeholder text on your homepage.

2. This month

Structure your real credentials into schema AI can read.

3. This month

Publish the category pages AI is already citing your peers for.

→ Moves your score from 62/100 to a projected 85/100 — and out of the "not cited" column above.

PILLAR SCORES

Crawler Access		20/20	STRONG
Off-site Corroboration		15/20	MODERATE
Technical Foundation		12/20	MODERATE
Content Citability		8/20	CRITICAL
Entity & Schema		7/20	CRITICAL

Biggest gap: Zero structured Person schema for Scott, despite genuinely substantial real credentials (Harvard AMDP, legal background, Capital Advisors USA) that AI currently cannot read as data.

Quick win: Remove the live Lorem Ipsum placeholder text from the homepage — visible today, unrelated to AI, fixable this week.

3 more you could win

Narrower questions in this exact niche, checked live — every one came back with no dominant source and no confident AI answer.

“What are the top distressed commercial real estate capital advisory firms near me?”

No dominant source, no clear business named — the flagship category question, wide open.

“How do I find alternative credit lenders for struggling commercial properties?”

Same pattern: no authority owns this answer yet.

“I need capital for a distressed retail property in the Southeast — who should I contact?”

A specific, real buyer scenario with zero confident answer.

THE "WHY" — AI'S OWN REASONING, ONE QUESTION PER CATEGORY

Not our inference — the model's actual generated answer text.

DISTRESSED CRE

“Who provides capital advisory for distressed commercial real estate owners?”

“Several firms provide capital advisory for distressed commercial real estate owners, including JLL, Cushman & Wakefield, Performance Advisory Group... JLL provides advisory for distressed real estate assets, including loan valuations, collateral valuations, and special assets. Performance Advisory Group offers loan restructuring, capital solutions, and access to private and institutional capital...”

What this tells us: AI names firms by the specific service it can point to (loan valuations, restructuring, capital sourcing) — generic “we do CRE advisory” positioning won’t cut it.

ALTERNATIVE CREDIT

“Who are the leading alternative lenders for commercial real estate?”

“The leading alternative lenders for commercial real estate are a mix of large private credit managers and specialized non-bank lenders... For a more practical borrower-focused list, commonly cited alternative CRE lenders include ACORE Capital — a major U.S. non-bank CRE lender providing balance-sheet capital across property types and deal types.”

What this tells us: AI splits this into “most prominent names” (mega-funds like Blackstone) versus a “practical borrower-focused list” of specialized lenders. You’re not competing with Blackstone — the opening is the practical-list tier, where smaller named players already get cited.

REAL ESTATE PE

“Who invests in real estate development as a capital partner?”

“The capital partner in real estate development is typically a real estate private equity firm, institutional investor, family office, or high-net-worth investor that provides equity or co-invests alongside the developer.”

What this tells us: The model defines the category (PE firm / institutional investor / family office / co-investor) before naming names — content that clearly positions you within one of these defined roles gets picked up over generic “we invest in real estate” copy.

HOSPITALITY INV/DEV

“Who advises on hotel and resort development projects?”

“Hospitality consultants and advisory firms advise on hotel and resort development projects, typically helping with concept planning, feasibility studies, brand selection, site and master planning, and development strategy.”

What this tells us: Same pattern as distressed CRE: AI cites firms by their exact service offerings, not their category. This is the one consistent signal across all four of your categories — answer-first content naming specific services beats generic positioning, every time.

PILLAR-BY-PILLAR BREAKDOWN

CRAWLER ACCESS · 20/20

STRONG

Finding: GPTBot, ClaudeBot, CCBot, PerplexityBot, Google-Extended, and Bytespider all return HTTP 200 — the site is fully readable by every major AI engine.

Fix: No fix needed here — this pillar is already maxed out.

OFF-SITE CORROBORATION · 15/20

MODERATE

Finding: Real, consistent identity across LinkedIn (personal + company), TheOrg.com (confirms Senior Managing Director title), a Florida corporate filing, and a cross-reference to Capital Advisors USA.

Fix: Add sameAs links from the site's schema to these existing, verified profiles.

TECHNICAL FOUNDATION · 12/20

MODERATE

Finding: Sitemap live, meta description present and well-written. Running PHP 7.4.33, which reached end-of-life in November 2022.

Fix: Upgrade PHP to a supported version; low urgency but worth scheduling.

CONTENT CITABILITY · 8/20

CRITICAL

Finding: A genuinely substantial about page (11,584 words) exists, but the homepage has live, unreplaced Lorem Ipsum placeholder text ("Donec porttitor euismod dignissim...") as an actual heading. No FAQ schema, nothing answer-first.

Fix: Remove the placeholder text immediately; restructure key pages to answer specific buyer questions directly.

ENTITY & SCHEMA · 7/20

CRITICAL

Finding: A generic WordPress/Yoast Organization graph exists, but there is zero Person schema for Scott despite his real, substantial credentials (Harvard AMDP, legal background, Capital Advisors USA).

Fix: Add a linked Person + Organization JSON-LD graph naming Scott's real credentials and cross-linking his verified profiles.
